DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 13-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the Japanese reference (JP 04-094723 A).
3. JP '723 discloses a method for decreasing the fluoride concentration in a vent gas, comprising contacting the gas with a treatment column containing soda lime, zeolite and activated carbon. In an example, 75 kg of soda lime is used with 200 g of activated carbon (see abstract, machine translation). The instant claims differ from the disclosure of JP '723 in that the amount of zeolite used is 5-37% by mass of the treatment agent, that the zeolite is X-type of faujasite with a pore diameter of 3 Angstroms or more, and that the sorbents have a particle size of 500 microns or less. Absent a proper showing of criticality or unexpected results, the amount of zeolite used and the particle size of the sorbents are considered to be parameters that would have been routinely optimized by one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention in order to achieve a desired level of decontamination of target compounds. One skilled in the art would also have been motivated to select an appropriate zeolite type in order to provide a sorbent capable of removing target compounds, based on their molecule sizes and the respective zeolite pore diameters.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claim 23 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The additional references listed on the attached PTO-892 form disclose halogen sorbents.
